

ConfigureMe Repository

ConfigureMe Repository is a commercial add-on for ConfigureMe. It allows to store all configurations in a central repository, which is basically a REST API on top of a MongoDB.

This allows not only better configuration management but also CRUD operations on the configurations in production environment.